

The desert is home to many things
Peace and serenity to many it brings Life today moves so fast
It helps to relax and find the things that last
The desert will always be home to many things Forever life and shelter it will bring The grass snake gracefully slithers through the bushes,
To get food, a family of coyotes rushes,
As the hawks search for prey, they circle the sky
I see that all the plants carry beauty, it's not a lie See it travel through the dust, bringing food to its chicks
And suddenly, in my brain, it clicks
To some people, the desert is a bunch of dirt
But you must look close to see what lurks Animals like the gila monster and the cactus wren Are cunning and smart as to where they make their den
Other states have blossom flowers as a mark of their state
But we are unique with the sonoran cactus as they
